If you receive our annual magazine, Vet Cetera, and have not already done so, please take a moment to take a short survey (less than 5 minutes) to help us better serve you. To begin the survey, please visit Readership Survey. If you have already responded, thank you!

Getting to Know You

Anyce Nagle, DVM, is an equine medicine and surgery intern. Originally from Attleboro, Mass., she earned her DVM degree from Ross University. She is currently finishing a research project on prognostic indicators, diagnostics, and outcomes of esophageal perforation in the horse. Other research interests include sports medicine, lameness, and wound management.

While earning her DVM degree, Anyce helped run an emergency animal rescue in the Caribbean. She fostered more than 10 island dogs during her time at Ross with an emphasis on rehabilitating emaciation, orthopedic and behavioral cases. In her spare time, she enjoys traveling, camping, cooking, watching the New England Patriots and hiking with her boyfriend and two rescue dogs, Admiral and Arizona.

Favorite Quote: "Be the change that you wish to see in the world."

Allison McDaniel is a veterinary technician in the Kirkpatrick Small Animal Critical Care Unit at the Veterinary Medical Hospital.
